

Thursday 3/19 11:00am

Here is a restatement of my last update:

I hope everyone is doing okay. If you remember, I told you in school that all of our communication would occur here on this website – mrromano.com. Please remind your friends in our class. I will be posting more information here every day to keep up moving forward in Earth Science.

I have used the Remind App in the past to communicate with my students.

Please do the following and join our Remind group so that I can contact you more directly

Text to 81010

Type in body of text @ELLEarth

Please spread the word to other people in the class to do this!

At this point in time, only 10 people have responded to this message, the one I personally sent to your school e-mail, AND the message that Mrs. Braverman sent to your parents' e-mails. Please stay connected – this is how we will have to go forward under the given circumstances.

If anyone can reach out to Michelle, Angela, Anita, Tiantian, Jun Jie, Junzhe, and Yurina and let them know to check the website and sign up to Remind, I would greatly appreciate it.

I intend to set up a Google Meet for tomorrow during our normal class time (period 2 which is around 8:30am). You must be responsible for checking in to our website and following the instructions I am providing you with. We are not on a vacation period right now and need to progress with our learning.

I will send the link to the Google Meet through the Remind app as well as post the link here on my website.

Thank you all!

Mr. Romano
